GAVE UP THE RING.

Small Gold Band Found in a Haddock's Stomach.

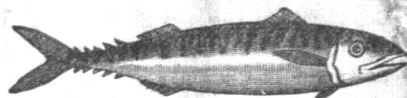

A short time ago a silver spoon was found in the stomach of a codfish, and the latest find is a gold ring in the stomach of a haddock.

Capt. Dexter Malone of the fishing schooner Manabassett, which arrived at Boston yesterday, reports that while one of the crew was fishing on Sunday he caught a haddock on his line which upon being opened, a gold ring was found in its stomach. It was a small band ring marked "14 k" on the inside, and evidently had been repaired. The ring was on exhibition at T wharf yesterday. It was too small for the finger of Capt. Malone, and it is said he will use it as a watch charm. This is the first time in the history of T wharf that Davy Jones' locker ever gave up any yellow metal. All kinds of theories are advanced by the fishermen as to how the fish got the ring.

MACKEREL AT NEWPORT.

Two Small Trips Landed Yesterday.

Many of the Fleet Reported in Harbors.

A telegram to the TIMES last evening from its regular Block Island correspondent states that steamer Alice M. Jacobs, schs. Annie M. Parker, Constellation, Geneva Mertis and 25 others were there for harbor yesterday, as a heavy breeze was going outside. They report seeing no fish Sunday night and think it very strange as fish were so plentiful Saturday night. Capt. Jacobs cruised from Shinnecock to No Man's Land and saw no fish.

At Newport yesterday were the following fares:

Sch. Bertha and Pearl, 50 barrels fresh mackerel.

Sch. John M. Plummer, of Portland, 50 barrels of fresh mackerel.

Schs. Rob Roy, Mary E. Harty, Arthur D. Story, Senator Saulsbury, Monarch, steamer Hurricane were there for harbor.

The gasoline auxiliary sch. Veda M. McKown was at Staten Island Sunday with 150 barrels salt mackerel.

Gasoline auxiliary sch. Saladin was at Sandy Hook on Sunday with 200 barrels salt mackerel on board.

New York is asking five cents apiece for mackerel today.

Fresh mackerel are bringing 6 and 7 cents apiece at Boston today.

The fare of salt mackerel of sch. Nettie Franklin which was landed at New York yesterday sold to N. C. Hall and Thomas Woodward & Son at $8 per barrel.

Total Seal Catch.

The Newfoundland seal fishery is now over, and the total catch amounts to 275,000 seals. No vessel of the fleet sustained serious injury, and only three men perished. The value of the catch approaches $450,000.

MORE MACKEREL.

Two Gasoliners at Newport with Fares This Afternoon.

First Mackerel Hereabouts Caught Today in Heath's Trap.

A special to the TIMES from Newport this afternoon reports the arrival there of the gasoline auxiliary sch. Saladin with 150 barrels of fresh mackerel and gasoline auxiliary sch. Natalie B. Nickerson of Boothbay with 175 barrels of fresh mackerel.

The first mackerel of the season to be taken in this vicinity was taken today in Heath's trap at Kettle Island.

The first fresh mackerel hereabouts last season was taken May 8 in Ipswich Bay, being caught in a herring net by Addison Woodbury of Folly Cove.

Sch. Monarch, at Newport yesterday, had 300 barrels of mackerel.
